

Membership

Promoting Electrotechnical Exports

We invite the following South African Companies to become members:

- South African registered companies that provide Electronics, Electrical Engineering, Information Technology and Telecommunication products or services;
- That are either South African manufacturers, software producers or service providers, or are a division or local subsidiary of an international company whose products or services are manufactured, assembled or provided in South Africa; and
- Are currently exporting or believe that their products and services have export potential.

Why join?

The Electrotechnical Export Council is uniquely positioned to assist our members to increase their international business and exports by:

Facilitating export growth

- Providing quality market access
- Specialised trade missions
- Participating at international exhibitions
- Designing, managing and funding export related projects
- Providing market research and logistical support
- Assisting with government incentives

Supporting export development

- Focused export training
- Trade statistics analysis by product and country
- Levering funding for specific projects

Promoting our members internationally

- Building a brand for the South African electrotechnical sector
- Networking opportunities and workshops

Providing a formal gateway between government and business regarding trade

- Addressing trade opportunities and issues by capitalising on our combined strength
- Influencing export policy and support schemes

Who can join?

We invite the following companies to become members:

- Companies who provide Electronics, Electrical Engineering, Information Technology and Telecommunication products or services; and
- who are either a South African manufacturer, software producer or service provider, or are a division, branch or local subsidiary of an international organisation whose product or service is produced or assembled in South Africa; and
- who are currently exporting or believe that their products and services have export potential.

The Council is uniquely positioned to facilitate export growth and globalisation

Source URL: <http://www.saeec.org.za/membership>